A still life photograph featuring a large, light-colored ceramic vase on the left, filled with several tall, thin, dried plant stems. To the right, a low, rustic wooden table holds five smaller ceramic vessels: two round pots, a tall slender vase, and two small jars. The scene is set against a light-colored, textured wall with a large, arched wooden frame on the left. Strong, warm sunlight enters from the right, casting long, diagonal shadows across the wall and floor. In the top right corner, the text "The Earthy House" is written in a dark, serif font, partially enclosed by a thick, yellow, hand-painted circular stroke.
